

SUNDAY'S RAIN INSURES BIG CROPS

FARMERS ALL HAPPY AND MANY ATTEND COURT DAY AT LANCASTER.

Farmers all over this part of the State are rejoicing over the splendid rain which fell Saturday night and Sunday. They say that this down pour means thousands of dollars in increased crops of all kinds this year. The greatest optimism prevailed at Lancaster Monday. A big crowd was present and everyone was delighted, and big crops are expected. Even those who have predicted a great falling off in tobacco, were much pecked up and the belief is general that the yield will be more than has been predicted for some time.

There were about one hundred cattle on the market which changed hands around 3 to 5c. Alex. Gibbs sold 77 cattle which averaged 1,463 pounds to Joe Bates at 7c. Wm. Royton sold a yearling mule to Senator R. L. Hubble for $105 a two-year-old for $180 and a little fellow for $80. Jim Clark bought a mule colt for $110. C. Walker paid $250 for a gray horse bought from R. E. Henry. Cross & Jones bought a few cattle at 3c.

Many tobacco growers are already housing their crops. Geo. W. Reid who raised 18 acres on the farm of Dr. Hugh Reid on the Danville pike claims to have the finest tobacco in the county. The Interior Journal is going to hold a tobacco and corn fair here in November, full announcement of which will be made later, at which some valuable prizes will be hung up for those farmers who are raising the best in this section.

J. H. Haughman and Will Shanks were in Lancaster Monday advertising their big sales, here Sept. 6 and 7, which promises to be the biggest thing in stock dispersal line held in Central Kentucky in years. All the big farmers in Garrard say they are coming, and these sales were the talk of the crowd there court day. Mr. Haughman has just gotten back from the Lawrenceburg and Perryville fairs where he swept everything with his herd of champion mules making 175 premiums he has won so far. These are the mules he is going to put in the big sale. He goes next to the Springfield fair.

Judge Saufley

AS SEEN BY A FRIEND AT THE STANFORD BAR

By the death of Judge M. C. Saufley, a man was taken who stood forth a leader among his fellows; whose strength of intellect, capacity for leadership, skill as a lawyer, and ability as a judge placed all who knew him under the tribute of unfeigned admiration.

The elements of mind bestowed upon him by nature were such as to foreshadow the place and the career that he made his own.

He was not made to take a minor part in that play which life stages; he was endowed as are only those whom men will follow.

Readiness of comprehension; clearness of vision, certainty in judgment were elements that he possessed, and to their aid he brought a will that never faltered, a courage that was unflinching, and a power of expression that served as a flawless mirror for his thoughts. More than this, he had a memory so retentive that he seemed ever to have at his command that wealth of fact which lies in observation and experience that are past, and a serene poise that was a stranger to the wiles of confusion.

He chose the forum as his sphere, and it was a happy choice. No lawyer, no layman, could see him in the activities of the court room without remarking his eminent fitness for that tribunal. Alert aggressiveness, resourcefulness, he was an antagonist to be feared, a counsel to be trusted. Few lawyers so happily combined those qualities that go to make up the well rounded attorney. He was a safe counselor, a skilled pleader, an effective examiner, a splendid advocate and a writer who, in the dry briefs of the law, furnished close reasoning with a fine literary flavor.

It is doubtful if this bar ever contained a better advocate. Not only did he have a voice of peculiarly attractive qualities, and an expression that clothed itself in language at once chaste and beautiful, but also he analyzed so well the propositions he was presenting, and reasoned so cogently from his premises, that his conclusions seemed to follow irresistibly.

He had none of the arts of the demagogue; he despised sham, and he had nothing but contempt for the petty trickery that now infests our practical politics. Yet when he was enabled to present his cause to the people, they trusted him and gave him their suffrage. That a man who disdained to stoop to modern political wiles would be repeatedly acclaimed by this citizenship as their leader, was a constant course of astonishment to those who depend for official preferment upon the methods that are to-day so prevalent and so notorious. But the reason the voters gave him office is not far to seek. That action on their part was impelled by higher motives than the more time servers can ever hope to reach. They had faith in him. They believed in this man whose nature had so generously endowed—believed not only in his learning and in his ability as a lawyer, but believed implicitly in his integrity.

And abundantly did he justify their faith. Three times they named circuit judge, and when, at death's command he surrendered the office back to the people, it had received increased dignity and honor by reason of his occupancy. In his court, lawyer and litigant alike felt that on the bench was a man who, as judge, knew neither enmity nor affection, who looked to but one guide in arriving at his decisions, and that was the lamp of law. A mind that worked with marvelous swiftness, a vision so penetrating that fraud nor sham could escape it, a courageous integrity that put aside every consideration but what found its sanction in the principles of the law, an utterance at once lucid and convincing, a store of legal learning—these were the qualities that characterized him as a judge. Truly can it be said of him that he held the scales of justice with so even a hand that jealous eye could not detect a tremor.

While Judge Saufley will be remembered by the brethren of the profession chiefly as a skilled lawyer and an able judge, no characterization of him can portray the man which does not take into account his gifts as a public speaker, considered apart from his attainments as an advocate. Here he possessed attributes that fairly earned for him the name of being an orator. He had, of course, what may be termed the physical qualifications of a successful public speaker—voice and delivery. He also possessed a purity of diction that charmed the trained mind, and a vigor of utterance that delighted the general public. But he did not depend for his effectiveness as a speaker upon the graces of oratory. In fact, mere phrase making he despised and his words came to his hearers charged with solid facts, that captured their judgment rather than their emotions.

With his quick, analytical mind, his particular field was in the realm of controversy, and on the hustings, in joint debate, he was at his best. Here he was a master. On such occasions his weapons were various at times he would flash forth with burning sarcasm and blast the periods of his adversary or having recourse to his scintillating humor, he would bury beneath ridicule the arguments of his opponent and hand him over to the scorn of the crowd. Again, he would appeal to his auditors with an eloquence that fired their enthusiasm, and, at other times, he taught them the principles that distinguished our political parties, and reasoned with them as to the causes that made possible this republic.

The years of his life were nearly three score and ten, but he was not an old man. Decrepitude had not touched him; to the end he was active and vigorous. Death did not summon him with wailing sickness or with torture of body; but swiftly and painlessly the call came to him, under the gentle skies of an August day, and he lay down to sleep upon the bosom of Mother Earth—an able lawyer, a splendid judge, an eminent citizen.

LIGHTNING PLAYS HAVOC IN WEST END

MUCH STOCK KILLED IN
DAY'S STORM—REV. BLAIN'S

An electrical storm accompanied by a heavy rain early Sunday morning did much damage in the West End. "Daisy" for 21 years the faithful bug-horse, of Mrs. S. D. A barn and crib on the farm of Mr. W. P. Glens north of Junction City, was struck by lightning which tore the building up considerably and then ignited them. Both were burned to the ground. The large stock barn on the place was not injured. Some corn in the buildings was burned.

The home of William Bear Mitchellburg, Boyle county was hit by lightning and greatly damaged. A basket of eggs on the kitchen table was broken to pieces as well as all the dishes in the house. While members of the family were greatly shocked none of them were hurt. In a small territory near Brumfield a terrific hailstorm accompanied the rain. The crops of tobacco of H. C. Mullins, Secretary of the Perryville fair, Lemuel Elliott, and Samuel Baker were almost ruined by the hail. The small chunks of ice riddled the tobacco leaves. Corn in some places was blown flat on the ground, and in other instances it was uprooted. Chaplin river in Perryville was very high.

It was said that Lieut. Gov. Cox, who is acting governor while Willson is on his vacation in Michigan, will make the appointment after all. Many of Mr. Walker's friends expected him to be appointed Monday when the appointment did not come, then, it said that it would come Wednesday. Mr. Walker is understood to have the support of Senator W. O. Bradley for the place, and as Bradley is about the whole thing in the republican party in Kentucky, now, what he says will undoubtedly have great weight with the acting governor who is said to have decided ambitions to go up one step higher.

That Pooled Tobacco

MUCH SECRECY OVER MATTER
OF ITS SALE

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 22

"What has the Burley Tobacco Society done, if anything, with the 1909 pooled crop?" is the question here today. A representative of the H. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, of Winston-Salem, N. C., bid on and secured a quantity of the crop last night. The Burley people will say what amount was secured, but the executive board adjourned until next Tuesday, when it is expected that the matter will be made public, and when it is also expected that the announcement will be made that the Reynolds Company has secured the larger part of the pool crop and that the entire pool has been sold.

The Reynolds Company is said to be buying for the trust, and if this be true the trust will have the greater share of the 120,000,000 pounds. On the other hand, tobacco men here, who claim to know something of the trust say that the American Tobacco Company has no use for the pooled crop and that it can get along mightily well without any of the crop as they have large quantities in storage and have also bought a large amount of tobacco out of the pool in Kentucky and also bought all it could secure in other States.

But whether the trust has been the purchaser or not the chief thing is the disposal of practically the entire 1909 pool, and although no official statement is made, it is generally believed that this has been accomplished and that the average price of about $18 dollars a hundred will be paid which will mean that $21,600,000 will be turned into the pool before the pool is completed.

Many rumors are current concerning the tobacco. One is that the sale to the Reynolds people was 1,500,000 pounds. T. D. Blackmore, representative of Reynolds here, refused to affirm or deny that his company has bought a pound of the tobacco.

Hon. Harvey Helm democratic candidate for Congress was in town for a short time this morning. He looks every inch a winter, and is confident of democratic success.—Danville Messenger.

We protest emphatically. If there is any season of the year that our urbane congressman does not resemble it is bleak and hoary winter. Every voter in the Eighth district who has not felt the hearty warmth of his gladsome handshake or basked in his sunny smile, certainly has some thing coming to him, and we'll wait until he gets it before the idea of November roll around.

There is a mournful truth in the suggestion that the candidacy of Senator McCreary for governor affords the voters of Kentucky the last chance they will ever have to vote for a Confederate soldier for a State office. Senator McCreary was one of the younger of the Confederates, but he is now well advanced in years. The "thin, gray line" is fading pitifully fast and Senator McCreary is undoubtedly the last Confederate soldier who will seek State office at the hands of Kentucky democrats.—Glasgow Times.

NO CHANCE IN EIGHTH

Discussing democratic congressional prospects in Kentucky for the fall campaign, the Louisville Times Saturday took a very true view of the conditions in the Eighth when it said:

That the republicans recognize that they have, hardly the semblance of a chance in the Eighth district is evidenced by the opposition, which is hardly more than nominal. Congressman Harvey Helm who is holding aloft the Democratic banner, will leave no stone unturned to get a record majority this year, and if democratic conditions in the "old Eighth" are any index, he will get it. His republican opponent is Col. R. L. Elwell, who, it is said, was drafted from Laurel county in the Eleventh district to make the race against the "Tall Sycamore of the St. Asaph." Col. Elwell has made two previous losing races for congress, so he has become accustomed to defeat, and it will not hurt him. Two years ago Congressman Helm had a plurality over L. W. Bethurum, Republican of 1,676.

AN ACT FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE TURNPIKE ROADS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

1. That it shall be unlawful for anyone to obstruct the water tables of a turnpike or any public road by putting a crossing, either private or public, over the water tables of a public road without providing a culvert or drain pipe of sufficient dimension to carry the full volume of water that may drain in this water table or to curb it so as not to impede the full flow of water. It shall also be unlawful to plant trees, telephone poles or fences in or closer than 2 1-2 feet of the outer edge of the ditch, so that a piece of machinery may be used in making, widening or deepening them. Any fencing, tree or stone falling into a water table or rolling down from above into it, shall be removed within five days by the owner of the land on which the obstruction was a part or any person not an owner trimming trees or cutting weeds or briars, or any person placing any other obstruction in water table, shall be liable for all damage done by turning water into the road-bed, and also to a fine of two dollars for each day the obstruction has laid in the ditch longer than five days.

2. It shall be the duty of the road overseer or county surveyor of roads to report every misdemeanor under this act with all the evidence it may collect to the Magistrate in whose district that part of the road may lay on the penalty of being indicted by the first grand jury for misdemeanor in office, and on conviction expelled from his office.

3. Any water table that may wash out deeper than necessary to carry the volume of water drained and undermining the road-bed or adjacent property by the permission of overseer or road supervisor, the ditch may be filled or dammed to its proper size.

4. In making or repairing any part of a public road one sixth or more of all money so spent shall be used for the drainage of said road by making water tables and placing culverts or drain pipes of suitable number and size.

Approved March 24th, 1910.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Others will assist in the meeting. This help for our meeting is the best that can be had for a revival or a great camp meeting and by the grace of God we expect have the best meeting we have ever had.

Accommodations: We furnish rooms or tents for those who wish to stay in the grounds. But occupants will please bring bedding. If you wish to buy or rent a tent please apply 10 days before meeting begins.

A dining hall and lunch stand will be run for the benefit of the people.

Purpose: This meeting is run for the positive salvation of lost humanity and not a big time gathering place. We propose to run the meeting orderly and not allow drinking or any misbehavior. We want that men flee the wrath to come and prepare to meet God. We believe in and preach holiness of heart and life but our meeting is clear of fanaticism, and the doctrine that we hold is the one that saves men and keeps them saved, revealed in our inward and outward life.

Are you coming? Be sure to come rent you a tent or build you a cottage and stay all through the meeting. You will never regret it.
